Arizona Public Universities Come Together, Host Statewide College-Going Workshops

WHAT: The Tri-University Tour

WHO: Arizona State University, University of Arizona and Northern Arizona University

WHEN/WHERE: Various dates and locations across Arizona

Phoenix, Ariz. - Arizona's three public universities have collaborated to provide parents and students information sessions across the state of Arizona that equip participants with the tools and resources necessary to navigate the college admission process.

To further support and encourage the Arizona community in the college-going process, Arizona State University, Northern Arizona University and the University of Arizona developed the Tri-University Tour. Representatives from the three universities will host a combined in-depth program where participants will leave with a better understanding of the college admission process, financial aid opportunities and information about each university – giving parents and students the resources necessary to make informed decisions about their future.

The Tri-University Tour is hosting community events, free and open to the public, and district events, open only to families of students attending a school in the district.

For dates, times, locations and to RSVP, parents and students can visit <https://visit.asu.edu/tri-university>.
